

Having trouble viewing this OPEN MINDS Circle e-mail? View it in your browser.

The OPEN MINDS Circle

The 'go to' place for market intelligence and best practice management solutions for the behavioral health and social service fields.

Tuesday, February 12, 2013

Related Resources

- Meeting The Challenge With Health Homes all members
- Medical Home V. Health Home - Confused? premium members
- What Matters In Making Health Homes Sustainable all members

More resources are available in the OPEN MINDS Circle Library!

Help

Lessons Learned From The Health Home Trenches

Health homes (and medical homes) are so new that it is rare to find someone who has been managing them long enough to give us "lessons learned." But we got just that at the 2013 OPEN MINDS Performance Management Institute. One of the keynote addresses featured a presentation by Michael Mittleman, Ph.D., Senior Vice President of Corporate Compliance of PSCH – an organization managing health homes in the New York market since DATE (see Using Technology To Succeed With Accountable Care Organizations & Health Homes premium members).

PSCH (Promoting Specialized Care and Health) is a 501(c)(3), comprehensive human service agency for people with developmental, psychological and behavioral disabilities, and serving 8,500 individuals in NYC's five boroughs, Long Island, Westchester, and New Jersey. PSCH has traditionally offered day treatment, residential, therapeutic, rehabilitation, educational, vocational and social services. PSCH's CareConnect interface connects and exchanges information from members of PSCH's Coordinated Behavioral Care (CBC).

The New York Medicaid Health Homes initiative is an initiative with the New York Department of Health (DOH). The DOH moved forward with implementation after the federal Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) approved New York's Medicaid state plan amendment for the initiative on February 3, 2012 – and the first of three enrollment waves began on January 1, 2012 with phased-in enrollment of about 700,000 people with mental health and/or addiction disorders and chronic medical illnesses.

Dr. Mittleman's advice to our audience?

1. Communicate – There is no way to overcommunicate. Organizations need to do

Benchmarking Data Unveiled — See How Your Organization Ranks!

Don't miss this exciting free executive web briefing!

Unlocking Your Data: The Power To Transform Healthcare

Presenters: Paul M. Lefkovitz, Ph.D., General Manager of Benchmarking, Netsmart & Paul M. Duck, Vice President of Business Development, Netsmart

March 13, 2013 | 2:00 pm EST

Benchmarking and data analytics each represent potent tools in the management of organizational performance. Together, they offer unrivaled power to transform healthcare.

Join Netsmart for a free executive web briefing where the organizational benefits and methods associated with benchmarking and data analytics will be discussed. Emphasis will be placed on how these tools complement one another in enhancing organizational performance.

1. The role that benchmarking plays in providing a diagnostic picture of your organization

2. How data analytics provides the toolset to uncover the root causes of performance (good or bad)

3. Fascinating new benchmarking data that you can use to gauge your own organization's performance!

Free Registration Sponsored By

Registration for this executive web briefing has been provided at no charge courtesy to the sponsorship of Netsmart. All registrants will receive a recorded copy of the executive web briefing, presentation slides, and recommended readings collection.

Click To Register Free!

this, and do this often at all steps of organizing a health home.

2. Build consensus – In any HH, there are many members with many votes. Consensus building can be a slow, but important process in decisionmaking.
3. Provide latitude – Work committees need a lot of room to develop the ideas that boards need to consider before moving forward with implementation.
4. Be agile or perish – With extreme regulatory volatility ruling the day in the market, organizations need to be able to change with changing requirements.
5. Hire legal counsel – The legal environment surrounding health homes is also volatile, with little or no case law for guidance. This complexity demands legal professionals.
6. Define IT needs internally, and outsource the solution – The competitive pressures within the industry mean that member organizations cannot expect to provide tech solutions without incurring possible distrust from other member organizations.
7. Acquire outside money – At startup, per member per month costs will not cover costs.
8. Hire full-time staff – Using existing staff alone also won't cut it. Hiring both full-time health home employees, as well as full-time IT staffs are a must to meet the staffing demands of health homes.

For a complete recap of our coverage of the 2013 OPEN MINDS Performance Management Institute, check out our official wrap-up.

Sincerely,
Monica E. Oss
Chief Executive Officer, OPEN MINDS

Back to top

For another free resource, see: Growing A Few Dozen Oak Trees all members

This resource is free for the next sixty days to all registered OPEN MINDS Circle members.

Back to top

© 2012 OPEN MINDS, Behavioral Health Industry News, Inc. All rights reserved.

Not a member of The OPEN MINDS Circle? Basic membership is free! Click here for more information.