

5 Reasons

INTEROPERABILITY TECHNOLOGY

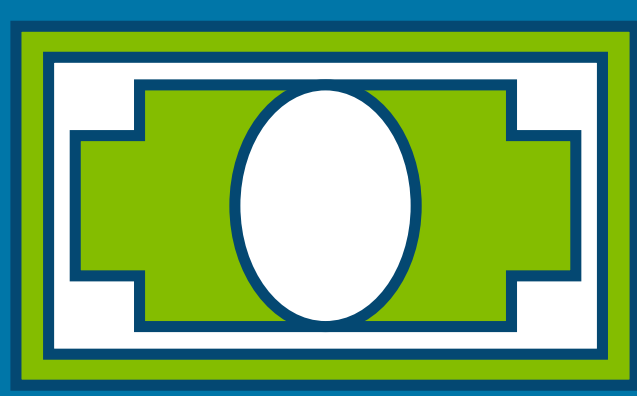

should be at the top of your wish list

1

You like to get paid

100%

of Medicare beneficiaries will be in accountable-care relationship by 2030¹

Interoperability powers participation in incentive-based care reimbursement

2

You can focus on enhancing outcomes

50%

of referrals aren't followed through²

Interoperability powers closed-loop referrals which may improve outcomes

3

You need to retain employees and keep them happy

2/3

of providers want EHRs that are better equipped to share information across systems³

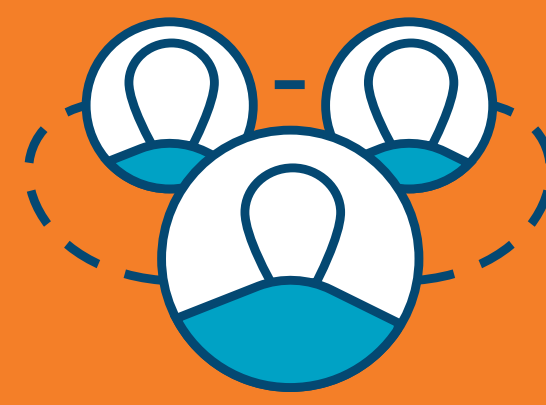

Interoperability powers access to complete information

4

You want individuals to be satisfied with the services you provide

38%

of individuals report gaps in care⁴

Interoperability powers better access to patient information

5

You're ready to explore alternative payment models, such as shared risk

Failures in care coordination account for

$27-$78B

in waste per year⁵

Interoperability powers improved care coordination which helps prevent duplicate services

Embracing interoperability could be the single biggest factor in the ongoing success of your organization.

Let's get started.

Netsmart

¹Centers for Medicare and Medicaid ²Dropping the Baton: Specialty Referrals in the United States

³The Harris Poll and Stanford University ⁴Association Between Patients' Self-Reported Gaps in Care

Coordination and Preventable Adverse Outcomes: a Cross-Sectional Survey ⁵The Pew Charitable Trusts